</table>
As the hieroglyphic texts from the time of Amenophis IV-Akhenaten, which are of such great interest from a religious-historical and historical point of view, are scattered about in so many different publications, it has been considered advisable to collect them as far as possible.

I have divided up the material into three different parts: 1. Texts from the tombs of El Amarna; 2. Boundary stelae in El Amarna; 3. All other inscriptions from this time, mostly from objects found in different parts of Egypt and now in museums and private collections.

Davies’ copies in The Rock Tombs of El Amarna I-VI. London 1903-1908, have been mainly followed for the tombs. By making a complete dictionary of these texts I have, however, been able to supply various gaps with the support of parallel texts.

A new copy of boundary stela K has here been made from Lepsius’ original squeezes, and it differs slightly from that of Davies. I should like to take this opportunity of expressing my gratitude to Professor Hermann Grapow as it is thanks to him, that I have been allowed to borrow these squeezes, which are preserved in the Akademie der Wissenschaften, Berlin.

Davies’ copy of boundary stela X has here been followed.

Only the versions S, Q, U and R and parts of A of the later proclamation are included in this publication, as I have had access to photographs and complete copies of these stelae only. For other versions I must refer to Davies’ collation in El Amarna V, pl. XXVII-XXVIII, but complete copies are not to be found there.

Very small, incomplete fragments and duplicates are as a rule not included in the miscellaneous texts, but everything has been made use of from places where only single finds from this time have been discovered. If the same phrase occurs repeatedly on an inscription, it has only been given once.

The miscellaneous texts are arranged in the following order: firstly, texts that can be definitely dated after the older and younger names of the Aten or Akhenaten; secondly, texts from this time without dating names and thirdly a group of small inscriptions from seals, scarabs, etc.

Texts about which there is great doubt as to whether they can be considered to belong to the time of Akhenaten, for example the canopic jars in A.S.A. IV, p. 140-142, 145-149 (Legrain), the tomb of Hatiay in A. S. A. II, p. 1-8 (Daressy), the tomb of Pa-Aten-m-heb in Beschreibung der Aegyptischen Sammlung der Altertümer in Leiden, IV, p. 1-5, pl. I-XII have not been included.

All obvious restorations are bracketed in the texts. Hypothetical restorations are given as foot-notes. Corrupt writings are marked with sic.

Davies’ forms of signs are followed, except in the case of  where he writes  after the original. This sign has been written  throughout this publication for the sake of clarity.

It is a great pleasure for me to thank my dear teacher, Doctor Phil. H.O. Lange, Copenhagen, for all the goodwill and interest he has shown me during the whole time I have been compiling this work and also for the never failing benevolence with which he has always conducted my studies.

I must also thank Mr. E. Lübdeckens, Berlin, for valuable help by revising and for good advises and Mr. B. von Bothmer, Berlin, for important references.

Note: The epithet 𓊭𓊫𓊪𓊳𓊰 is never combined with the cartouche (𓊳𓊪𓊳𓊰). As one of these names must have stood in the cartouche, there must be some mistake. - e.g. Restore 𓊳𓊪𓊳𓊰 after p. 71, l. 14-15. e.g. Restore 𓊳𓊪𓊳𓊰 after p. 19, l. 10. The line was originally introduced by 𓊳𓊪𓊳𓊰. See Davies, El Amarna I, p. 15. - i.e. Can probably be restored 𓊳𓊪𓊳𓊰 after p. 65, l. 13. The name Meryra has been substituted for an original 𓊱𓊪𓊳𓊰. See Davies, El Amarna I, p. 16.
a.—b. See p. 3. note a.—h. — c. See p. 3, note l. — d.—e. Can possibly be restored in accordance with p. 62, l. 11.
